

2013-11-13-080 VetScite News Update (November 12, 2013)

To: (01) Public health and One Health Initiative; (12) Scientific Information, research and education;

VetScite News Update (November 12, 2013)

The latest News Update at Veterinary Sciences Tomorrow is online and may be reached from the Home Page (<http://www.vetscite.org>) using the News link in the navigation bar at the top of the page. As usual these news items have been selected from a range of biomedical and animal health sources with the express purpose that they should be of interest to researchers working in the veterinary and animal science environments.

A selection of the headlines is listed below and links are provided to the relevant web pages:

Foot and mouth disease in sub-Saharan Africa moves over short distances, wild buffalo
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008283/index.html>

Mechanism for pain resistance in grasshopper mice suggests potential drug
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008285/index.html>

Study with totally blind people shows how light helps activate the brain
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008301/index.html>

To swallow or to spit? New medicines for llamas, alpacas
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008302/index.html>

Veterinary scientists track the origin of a deadly emerging pig virus in the United States
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008305/index.html>

Molecule controls blood sugar effectively in humans and also promotes weight loss in rodents
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008307/index.html>

Atypical scrapie prions from sheep and lack of disease in transgenic mice overexpressing human prion protein
<http://www.vetscite.org/publish/items/008310/index.html>

More News Items
<http://www.vetscite.org/news.html>

With kind regards,

Prof. Marian C. Horzinek (Editor-in-Chief)
